This resource center creates a balance between the need for inviting, open spaces and a safe and secure environment. The balance is achieved by carving out the outdoor spaces from the solid concrete form. This community resource center will not only provide for the community but will also be an escape from the stress of an urban environment.